One of our favorite ways to change up a bedroom or living space? New throw pillows and blankets, of course. And what better way to redecorate this spring than with some on-trend patchwork pillows and quilts? (In case you missed it, you're going to want patchwork prints in your closet this spring, too.)

Let us be the first to introduce you to Pottery Barn's latest collaboration with Los Angeles designer Pauline Boyd of Counterpane Studio. At Counterpane, Boyd designs every quilt and pillowcase with fabric fragments from her world travels, and they're stitched together by local artisans. The eclectic pillows and quilts in her collection for Pottery Barn have that same one-of-a-kind look and would be the perfect home-y addition to any space.

Check out some of our favorites from the Counterpane for Pottery Barn collection, which you can shop today at potterybarn.com.
